> DR. CHAMBERLIN hence the necessity of maxing immediate spilication, if you wish to be beslet of your maindes.—Hesolitis no patients except those given up everywhere clee as immurable. The reader might here sak, does he resity cure such cases, orare his statements faise? Has becured any such cases in Dayton or are his cure all on paper and afar off? In reply, he would say, he has cured, and is curing every day, just such cases. He has restored to health persons in Dayton, who have been suffering from various diseases, first, ton and lifteen years, and upwards, in a few-days. He has curretund is outing a class of diseases, that have been suffering from various diseases, first have bedied the skill of the madlead profession in all ages of the world.—The seeder might here inquire, by what means such wonderful cures are performed. Not by irritating the delisate mombranes of vital regams, by drugging the stomach, but by direct application of the positive and negative polarities of electricity.—Again, it might be saked, has not electricity been employed as a remedial agent for years, both in Europe and the United States, with indifferent success? And, are not numbers now using it, in our very midst, with no better resulf. This sail very true; and when we consider the ignorance and realissness displayed in its application, the result has been no fixed principle for applying the Agent, and, therefore, no uniform result could have been anticipated. It has been considered as beneficial in a few cases, only, and uncertain even in those. There has been no fixed principle for applying the Agent, and, therefore, no uniform result could have been anticipated; but owing to the friendly relation existing between electricity and health, remarkable ours have been performed, which have been looked upon as a lucky lift, rather than the result of a fixed law. The ignorance del played in the administration of this might y Agent, is unpardonable.
